CLASSICAL SECTION

MARTIN BÄHLER

East Orange, N. J.

SON of Rev. Pierre Benjamin Bähler, minister in the Reformed Church in the Netherlands, and Harriet Charlotte Sames. Ancestors of grandfather came from Italy. One married Miss d'Espar, of illustrious ancestry in the French nobility. Father studied theology at Lausanne, Switzerland and was minister of a Walloon (southern French-speaking Belgian) church in Holland. Of this union, (Benjamin and Harriet), were born Louis H., Rutgers '61; Pierre G. M., Rutgers 1868; and Martin Bähler '69; the latter in Breda, the historic city of sieges and treaties, August 29, 1846, in the year of the discovery of the planet Neptune. Lived in the famous cities of Breda; Nymegen (home of Charlemagne) in Gelderland; Meppel; in Drenthe, at Hellendoorn; and in Deventer (from which place came the ancestors of at least four generations in Rutgers College) in Overijssel and in America at Albany, N. Y. Educated at a French preparatory school and had one year in the gymnasium (or high grade school) in the Netherlands. In Albany was two years and a half in the Boys' Academy. In childhood, remembers falling down stairs when eighteen months' old; being vaccinated when two years old; and falling into the water four or five times. Entered Rutgers College in the Junior class. Passed in Greek, without further examination by Dr. Cooper, on showing the mss. of his Greek oration written in Albany. While in the Albany Academy, took the "Principal's Prize" in English Composition; also gold medal for same, awarded by the Beck Literary Society; and by the Young Men's Association for Fourth of July Essay. In college, took second honor and two prizes—for classics and for mathematics. Attended the summer session of Lausanne University, in Switzerland, in 1902. For three consecutive years had charge of instruction in French, at the summer sessions of the College of Middlebury, Vt. Since leaving college, lived in Newark about five years, at Summit, N. J., about seven years, and the rest of the time in Orange and East Orange, N. J., engaged in teaching. Since 1900, head of the French Department at the East Orange High School. Received degrees of A.B. and Phi Beta Kappa in 1869 and A.M. in 1872. Elder, and leader of music, in Arlington Avenue Presbyterian church. In politics, Independent, but "always for Teddy." Recreation, mountain climbing in the Adirondacks. Climbed Mount Marcy (5344 feet) about a dozen times. Married October 16, 1879, at Belleville, N. J., to Miss Annie Leslie, daughter of Henry L. Cadmus. Of this union were born Adrian Leslie, June 20, 1883, and Elsie Margarita (Mrs. B. H. Hutchinson), March 22nd, 1888. Has in type-script a work on French-English Homographs.

J. H.

A class mate of Martin Bähler is glad to express his appreciation of the cultured father of the three sons who were graduated from Rutgers College, who, as he remembers, was a sunny old gentleman, of progressive orthodoxy and eager to read all of the writings of President James McCosh. In college rivalries—"emulation without envy"—we considered Martin Bähler the leader of the class (despite a certain flattening of vowels) in linguistic achievements. He not only took the prize in the classics, but he had no competitor. The three brothers (two now deceased) were fine specimens of Netherlands culture.

EDGAR BERGEN

Died April 24, 1896.

SON of Jeremiah Bergen, farmer, at Flatlands, N. Y., and Jane Ann Lott. A descendant of Hans Hansen Bergen. Born at Flatlands, Long Island, N. Y., January 22, 1848. Lived there until entering college. Prepared at Erasmus Hall Academy, Flatbush, Long Island. First honor in college and valedictorian of his class. Phi Beta Kappa. Graduated with A.B. A.M. Rutgers 1872. Fraternity, Chi Phi. Studied law in the office of Gen. Philip S. Crooke, Brooklyn, N. Y. Admitted to bar, 1872. Residences since leaving college, Flatlands, until 1879; Flatbush, from 1879 to 1896. Justice of the Peace at one time at Flatlands. Elder for a time in the Flatbush Reformed Church, also Sunday School Superintendent in the Sunday School of said church for five years. Member of the Flatlands, and then of the Flatbush Reformed churches. United with church at age of 14. A diligent student of the Bible. Republican. One of the most highly respected members of the bar in Brooklyn, and for several years before his death his practice was very large. Married, in Fish-Kill Village, N. Y., September 12th, 1877, Gertrude E. Mathewson. Children: Jeremiah Bergen, born September, 1878; Edgar Bergen, jr., born 1883, died April, 1888; Gertrude Lott Bergen, born November 26, 1891, a graduate of Vassar, 1915. Relatives among Rutgers alumni: Samuel Woodbridge Bergen, 1867, cousin. Rev. Samuel M. Woodbridge, D.D., LL.D., a graduate of N. Y. U. and Professor in the Theological Seminary at New Brunswick, was an uncle by marriage, having married Mr. Bergen's father's sister.

ROBERT DOIG

Died June 16th, 1892.

BORN of James Doig, iron-worker and builder, who came from Scotland, when young, to better his condition and prospered. His mother was Margaret Knox, of Scotch-Irish ancestry, whose mother came to America, on the death of her husband, in order to afford opportunities for her three little children, who grew up and became persons of influence, the son, Dr. Knox, being a widely known physician in Richmond, Va. Born in New York City July 11th, 1842, Robert lived there under private instruction. His mother was a deeply religious woman and encouraged him to study for the ministry, and showed her warm sympathy with him during his collegiate and theological course. Graduated from New Brunswick Seminary in June 1872, and on December 9th, 1872, at Berne, N. Y., was licensed and ordained, entering upon the pastorate of the Reformed Church in that place. Was in charge, also, of the first Reformed church at Beaverdam, in the classis of Schoharie. Faithful not only in pastoral and preaching services, but in protracted meetings—after one of which he caught the cold which laid the foundation of the malady, of which he eventually died, after suffering for eight years or more. He held the pastorate of the Reformed Church of Scotia, N. Y., from 1885 to 1892. He was Stated Clerk of the Classis of Schoharie, from 1877 to 1885. In politics, Republican. On October 23rd, 1872, he married at Griggstown, N. J., Adelaide L. Garretson, daughter of Stephen Garretson and of this union, four children were born: Stephen Garretson, Arthur Knox, Myra C., and Edith G. He wrote the history of the town of Berne, Albany Co., N. Y., and a number of articles on local history in the daily papers and on church events in several periodicals. Robert Doig was always a cheerful, pleasant, student companion with only occasional fits of depression, conscientious and diligent in the ministry. He was a kind father and husband and beloved by the people whom he served in the gospel.

THEODORE DOUGLAS FRAZEE

Died August 25th, 1900.

SON of Sylvester Frazee and Ann Symonds Brown. Born at Rahway, N. J., December 1st, 1838. Before entering college lived twelve years at Watkins, N. Y. Student and preacher while in college. Graduated in June, 1869. He competed for the English composition prize and for the logic, clear statement and strong discussion should, perhaps, have won the prize, which was awarded to his classmate "Curio." Was a member of the Alpha Beta Phi fraternity. Entered the Newark Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1863, after the three years course of study prescribed by the Conference. His pastorates were at Dunellen, N. J., New Dovy, N. J., Milford, Pa., High Bridge, Wortendike, Arcola, and Branchville, N. J., Middle Smithfield, Pa., Belvidere, Oxford, and Washington, and Anderson, N. J., Rockland Lake, N. Y., Port Morris, N. J., and Woodrow Church, Rossville, S. I., his last charge, from 1897 to 1900. Was in the active ministry from 1865, excepting the years 1883, and from 1885 to 1892, when supernumerary relations were taken, on account of ill health. In politics, Republican. Married, June 30th, 1875, at Dunellen, N. J., Mary Frances Morgan, daughter of Charles C. and Lucy A. Morgan. Of this union was born Florence Augusta, June 30th, 1876, who married, April 9th, 1901, Mr. Joseph Seguinne Decker. For ten years he was engaged in literary work, as editor of the magazine called The Cabinet and Review, published at Newark, N. J., from 1886 to 1892, and The Hudson Valley Bulletin, issued irregularly, from 1893 to 1897. He wrote and published a book called The Farmer's Niece, 1892. In 1874 he built the new M. E. Church edifice, at Highbridge, N. J., and in 1879 the new brick M. E. church building at Branchville, N. J. His fine humanity, earnestness, sincerity and brotherly feeling was a moral tonic to the class of '69, Older than most of us, his influence upon us all was like that of a kind, unselfish older brother. His name is an honor to the class.

W. E. G.

WILLIAM ELLIOT GRIFFIS

Glen Place, Ithaca, N. Y.

SON of John Limeburner Griffis, merchant navigator in many seas, 1816-1838; coal merchant, 1839-1873; retired 1873-1879; in New Brunswick 1836-1841; and Anna Maria Hess. John L. Griffis was descended from the Welsh Grifuids, of the ninth century, mentioned in the Book of St. Chad. Captain John Griffis, born in England in 1756, was opposed to the policy of King George, came to America after the Revolutionary War and carried the American flag around the world. He was one of eight generations of Welsh Devonshire men who followed the sea. Dying April 2, 1807, he was buried within a few feet of Benjamin Franklin. His wife, Hannah Eyre, was descended from the Eyres of the family founded by a soldier from Rouen, France, who came in the army of William the Conqueror and was knighted on the field of Senlac or Hastings, A.D. 1068. Her ancestor, George Eyre, came to Burlington, N. Y., in 1727 and married Miss Mary Smith. Their three sons were Free Quakers; two of them, John and Benjamin holding commissions as colonels in the Pennsylvania Line. Has owned over ten thousand books. Collected his first library in college which he took to Japan and gave away there; large Dutch library given to Hope College, and several special collections, including one on the Pilgrim Fathers and his entire Chinese and Japanese library to Cornell University. Has several unpublished manuscripts. Has written forty-one books, mostly for peace and good will among nations and peoples, but in the total for forty years, in the ups and downs of authorship never made one dollar's profit above expenses. Has lectured over two thousand times.

"I count among my highest achievements under God—service for my country in the 44th Penna. Regt. at 19 years of age. the introduction into Japan of technical schools, thus honoring manual labor; the influence of my special studies as to the part played by Holland in the making of the American nation; the instilling of correct notions as to Japanese civilization; the erection of 17 historical tablets, in Schenectady, Ithaca, and the Netherlands. Reverencing historic truth as highly as religious truth, or any other sort or phase of truth, I have tried to do justice to the influence of the Dutch Republic on the formation of the American commonwealth (ignored by most American hystriographers); to help Orientals and Occidentals to understand and appreciate each other, to do absolute justice in my writings to men of every creed, color, race, and civilization; to be a Christian and to serve my fellowmen. March 4, 1916." Data given and what is here quoted and written on the 50th anniversary of entrance as pioneer educator in Fukui, Echizen, Interior Japan.

Pruyn, of the class of 1833, who was also trustee of Rutgers College from 1853 to 1882, a donor to the library and a generous friend to students.

W. E. G.

EDWARD DWIGHT SHEPARD

Died January 13, 1912.

SON of Blanchard Shepard, business man and president of the First National Bank of Hudson, N. Y., and Mary Warren Mellen. Born at New Orleans, La., April 10th, 1849. Lived at New Orleans and at Hudson, N. Y. Attended school in Hudson and at the Grammar School in New Brunswick. He graduated in the class of 1869. Was a member of the Delta Phi fraternity. He engaged in the banking business and was head of the firm of E. D. Shepard & Co. of New York City, which did a large business in bonds. The firm was very successful until 1909, when apparently, through the extravagance of the junior partners who were left in control, the firm was forced into bankruptcy. He lived for some years in Brooklyn, but later years at South Orange, N. J. His church connections were the Reformed Church in Hudson, N. Y., the First Presbyterian Church, South Orange, N. J., and the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York City, at the time of his death. In politics, Independent Republican. He was married at South Orange, N. J., June 3rd, 1879, to Miss Ellen Wright Newton, daughter of Frederick W. Newton, and Nancy Caryl Gibson, of South Orange. Of this union was born Frederick Newton at South Orange, February 24th, 1881, who died January 6, 1915.

EDWARD WARREN CLARK

Died June 5, 1907.

SON of Rev. Rufus Wheelwright Clark, D.D., and Eliza Walton, his wife. Dr. Clark was pastor of Congregational churches at Portsmouth, N. H., East Boston, Mass., Brooklyn, N. Y., and of the First Reformed Church, Albany, N. Y. and author of numerous books and pamphlets. Mrs. Clark was a woman of fine intellectual power and social grace. Born at Portsmouth, N. H., January 27, 1849, lived at home and prepared in the schools until he entered Rutgers College. An accident in boyhood, which severely injured his eyes, requiring several surgical operations, handicapped Mr. Clark all his life, greatly hindering, in both direction and results, a man of otherwise notable energy. After leaving college, he traveled with his classmate Griffith, in Northern Europe (through Switzerland together on foot). Studied theology during two years in the Ecole de Theologie, at Geneva, under Dr. Merle d'Aubigne, and later at the Episcopal Divinity School in Philadelphia. Through the application, in 1871, of Count Katsu Awa and the authorities at Shidzuoka, made to his classmate Griffis, then at Fukui, an invitation was sent to him to come out to Japan. After two years at Shidzuoka, 1871-1873, he taught chemistry and physics in the Imperial University 1873-'75, returning home by way of Asia and Europe. Had the honor, in 1874, of lecturing before the Court and the full Imperial Household in the Mikado's palace, the Emperor thanking him personally and bestowing various tokens in the form of art works. Ordained to the diaconate in Holy Trinity Church, New York, January 1880, and to the priesthood in Holy Trinity Church, Philadelphia, June 1881. Held pastoral charges at the Church of the Epiphany, Philadelphia, Pa., Church of the Ascension, Wakefield, R. I., and St. Peters by the Sea, Narragansett Pier, R. I. His later homes were at Tallahassee, Fla., Columbia, Tenn., and Nashville, Tenn. His uncle was Bishop Thomas March Clark, D.D., of Rhode Island. In politics, Republican. He was a great pedestrian, climber of mountains and fond of horseback riding. In 1878, he married Miss Louise McCullough of Stephen's Point, Wis. Of this union were born Edith Louise, September 2, 1880; Edward Warren, February 17, 1882; Naomi Walton and Ruth Lawton, twins, March 16, 1884; Henry McCullough, February 26, 1887; Robert Ernest, January 10, 1889; Lucius Leman, January 24, 1891; Marjorie Wellington, July 1, 1896. In 1916, these were all living except two; two were married and there were three grandchildren. Fletcher Clark, class of 1873, was his younger brother. Author of "Life and Adventure in Japan"; "From Hong Kong to the Himalayas"; "Kats Awa: the Bismarck of Japan," and many letters in the Evangelist, N. Y. Evening Post, etc., from Japan. Thrice he accompanied parties of tourists around the world for the Clark Tourist Company of New York. In 1904-'05, he was active in raising a fund for the widows and orphans made by the Russo-Japanese war. A delightful companion in travel, an interesting man and an eager and persevering student and ready for fresh enterprises, but seemingly erratic and changeful—all, it is believed, from the fearful nervous strain, suffered all his life, from eye-trouble. EBENEZER PLATT JOHNSON

Died August 17, 1914.

SON of Rev. John Gray Johnson, who was pastor of the Reformed Dutch Churches at Glenham and Upper Red Hook, N. Y.; Graduate of Rutgers College, 1836, and of the New Brunswick Seminary in 1839. Pastor at Red Hook from 1846 to 1870, and of Mary Gildersleeve Platt. Born at Upper Red Hook, Dutchess Co., N. Y., May 9th, 1849. Grew up in his father's home and also lived some years with his maternal grandfather, Ebenezer Platt of New York City, while attending the University Grammar School. He was two years in Rutgers College and then going to Williams College was graduated in 1869. After college, studied law with his uncle, the Hon. Thomas Nelson, 55 Liberty Street, New York, in which city he lived until his decease. Held degrees of A.B. and LL.B. (Williams). Was a member of Rev. Dr.

Booths's Presbyterian Church, University Place and 10th Street. He was a member of the Morris Club at Mott Haven and spent his leisure hours in sculling on the Harlem River and in later life managed sail boats skilfully. He was married, in the Methodist Episcopal Church, Bloomingdale-on-Hudson, September 21st, 1871, to Mary Dorsey Disosway, youngest daughter of Cornelius Ryerss Disosway, a lawyer of New York City, from which time he practiced law in New York. The children of this union were Norman Gildersleeve, born June 22nd, 1872; Elsie Wilkins, born August 4, 1874; and Ellen Gray, born December 3, 1876, of which three, Norman survives, with three children.

WILLIAM LITTLE TERHUNE

*Died January 5, 1869.

SON of William Letson Terhune, (Rutgers A.B. 1835, A.M. 1838, born May 16, 1815; died December 27, 1907; Elder in Matawan Presbyterian Church for 60 years), and Margaret Little. Great grandfather, Abraham Terhune, was First Lieutenant in Captain Van Deventer's Regiment, N. J. militia during the Revolutionary War. William Little, his grandfather, on his mother's side, started the first school and the first bank in Matawan. Born, Matawan, N. J., February 15, 1848. Matawan his only place of residence, except during a part of his preparatory course, and during his college days, he made his home with his grandfather, Judge John Terhune, of New Brunswick. Prepared in the schools of Matawan and in the private school of Doctor, later Professor Gustavus Fischer, in New Brunswick. In college nearly four years, until his death, during the holiday vacation of his Senior year. The faculty of the college, his class, and the fraternity to which he belonged were well represented at the funeral in the Presbyterian Church of Matawan on January 8. Dr. Campbell, also at the request of the faculty, preached a very touching memorial discourse in the College Chapel January 17. Junior orator. Fraternity, Delta Kappa Epsilon. Intended to study law. JACOB CRAIG VAN BLARCOM

Died August 24, 1908.

SON of Jacob Van Riper Van Blarcom, farmer and merchant, who also served two terms in the New Jersey State Legislature, and Euphemia Maria Dixon. His first parental American ancestor was John Van Blarcom, who came from Amsterdam, Holland, in 1621, and settled in New Jersey; he married Magdaleentje Thennis, and from them the line descends through their son Gylbert and his wife Elena Lacomba; their son Jans and his wife, Vrouwtjen Kip; their son Hendricks, and his wife Annatje Van Winkel; their son Johannis and his wife Antje Jacobusse; their son Brant and his wife Getty Van Riper, who were the grandparents of Jacob C. Van Blarcom. Hendrick, or Heindrick Van Blarcom, his great great grandfather, was a Captain in the Second Regiment, Essex Co., N. J., Continental Troops during the Revolutionary War. Brant Van Blarcom, his grandfather, was the first mayor of Paterson, N. J. Born at Warren Point, in Bergen County, across the river from Paterson, June 1, 1849. Lived there and in Paterson before entering college. Prepared in the public schools and in the private school of Samuel Hosford of Paterson, and in some preparatory school of Jersey City. Was in college one year. Zeta Psi fraternity. In 1866 went to St. Louis, Mo., where he spent the rest of his life. He entered there the employ of Peterson, Hanthorn & Co., wholesale saddlery, hardware, and leather merchants, and so quickly did he master the details of the business that during the epidemic of cholera in the fall of the same year, he was sent out to take the place of a traveling salesman who refused to go into the fever stricken cities of the South. His progress thenceforth was rapid, and in 1870, despite his youth, he was invested with the power of attorney to liquidate all the business of the firm and close up its affairs. Subsequently he was appointed head accountant of the National Bank of Commerce of St. Louis; at age of 28 cashier, then Vice-President, and in 1905 President. He assisted in organizing the Missouri Edison Company, and the Missouri Electric Light and Power Company of St. Louis, and was interested with Clay Pierce and other St. Louis capitalists in the Mexico Central Railway. Later he assisted in financing the Tennessee Central Railway, of which he was President until a short time before his death. He was also Vice-President of the Burlington Elevator Co., and a director in the St. Louis Car Wheel Co., the St. Louis Portland Cement Co., and the Phoenix National Bank of New York, as well as President of the St. Louis Clearing House and a member of the Merchants' Exchange. He was also treasurer of the committee who raised funds in St. Louis for the San Francisco earthquake sufferers in 1906. A member of the Sons of the Revolution, the Society of Colonial Wars, the Holland Society of New York, the New York and Union Club of New York, the Adirondack Club, and the St. Louis Commercial, Log Cabin, Cuivre Hunting and Noonday Clubs of St. Louis. Avocation, shooting and fishing. Married in Chicago, Ill., January 19, 1871, Mary Fairfax, daughter of James M. Gamble, of Bloomington, Ill., and Mary Walker Hodge. He died at his summer home, Little Moose Lake, in the Adirondacks, near Old Forge, N. Y. Children: Leslie Craig Van Blarcom, born January 12, 1873; Frederick Van Blarcom, born June 20, 1885. Jacob C. Van Blarcom was 12th in descent from Hon. Nicasius de Sille, who was pensionary of the city of Amsterdam, and was one of the ambassadors to Queen Elizabeth of England, and afterwards ambassador to Denmark and to Germany. He was also 10th in descent from Hon. Nicasius de Sille, who was First Counsellor to Peter Stuyvessant, at that time Director General of New Netherland.

MARVIN REUBEN MERCHANT

Dead. Persistent attempts to locate kin or relatives unavailing.

THOMAS M. MURRAY

Died November 24, 1907.

SON of John Murray, of Delhi, N. Y., contractor, making a specialty of bridge building, and Ellen Middlenum. Born at Delhi, June 18, 1847. Delhi only place of residence before entering college. Prepared in district schools of Delaware Co., N. Y., and in Delaware Academy at Delhi, graduating therefrom at age of fifteen. In 1866 entered Rutgers Scientific School, and remained in College until January, 1869. In June, 1868, he won the tub race across the Raritan River at New Brunswick, being the only one who was successful in getting across the river, using wooden paddles. Residences since leaving college: Paterson, Newark, Highland Park 1891-7, Plainfield 1897-1901, New Brunswick 1901 until death,—all in New Jersey. After he left college he went into business with his father and his uncle, Dr. David Murray, Professor in Rutgers College. In the manufacture of brick at or near Singac, N. J., about four miles from Paterson. For a time also he was in the real estate and auction business in New York City. In 1879 he became a contractor for the building of docks and bridges. In 1888 he became associated with the Thomson-Houston Co., of Boston, in electrical contract work, and in 1889 formed a co-partnership with J. D. Murray in the building and equipping of electrical railroads. He built trolley lines in Paterson, N. J., in Bridgeport, Conn., and elsewhere. He was Superintendent of Construction of the New Brunswick Trolley System, and aided largely in securing the necessary capital for that enterprise. Church connection, Presbyterian, but not a member. A Republican in politics. A lover of fine horses. Married, in March 2, 1869, in the First Presbyterian Church at New Brunswick, Helen W. Wyckoff, daughter of Peter N. Wyckoff and Emma H. Price. Children: Florence, deceased, married Joel B. Harvey; Emma, married Robert B. Strong; Ellen, married Rev. Jesse L. Durfee. Relatives among Rutgers alumni: David Murray, 1873, of Delhi, N. Y., first cousin; Asher Murray, 1879, of Delhi, first cousin; Norbury C. Murray, 1906, of East Orange, second cousin; Rev. Jesse F. Durfee, 1910, son-in-law. Mr. Murray's great achievement was the success he made of his railroad contract work, and especially his success in the establishment of the New Brunswick trolley system. When a student in Delaware Academy, just before the breaking out of the Civil War, some Southern students there decided to tear down the Stars and Stripes waving over the school. Mr. Murray and others learning of the plan, in their patriotism, resolved to thwart it. In the excitement of the scuffle that ensued our young hero jumped off a high embankment into the Delhi Creek and broke his right ankle, obliging him to use crutches a year or so. After leaving school, and working for his father a couple of years, he resolved to take a higher education and sought to enter West Point Military Academy. Through his uncle, Prof. David Murray, of New Brunswick, and Judge William Murray of Delhi, with the aid of Senator Roscoe Conkling, he secured the appointment and passed his examinations, doing exceptionally well in mathematics, but physically could not qualify, because of his injured ankle, which was enlarged.
